

So that in order that a man may be happy, it is necessary that he should not only be capable of his work, but a good judge of his work.

John Ruskin